GIVE THANKS!

Thanksgiving

By ANNA BLACKSTONE VALIQUET

THOU dost bless us, O our Father,
Every day and every hour.
While awake and while we're sleeping
We are safe in thy great power.

Thou dost show us paths of beauty,
Leading on where all is bright,
Far beyond the clouds and darkness,
Into conscious realms of light.

All the earthly cares and struggles
Have a mission here, we find.
They unfold the priceless beauty—
Hidden jewels in mankind.

And we thank thee for thy blessings,
For the sunlight, birds and flowers,
For our lives and all the dear ones
Sacred to these hearts of ours.

And if any should be absent
In our homes Thanksgiving day
We shall know that thou art with them,
Blessing in thy perfect way.

In the great eternal kingdom
We shall meet with one accord,
Giving thanks and joyful praises
At the table of our Lord.

Every Day Thanksgiving Day.
We should make every day a thanksgiving day. I hold the same sentiments upon this subject as the late Dr. Maltbie Babcock of New York.
He said: "Why don't people have 364 days of thanksgiving and only one of scolding? The world would be so much happier." — Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone.

A SONG OF MR. TURKEY

By FRANK L. STANTON.

Hi, Mister Turkey! Ter see you struttin' roun'
Folks would think, I reckon, you weigh a hundred pound.
You steppin' mighty high now, but I

Fer yander sets de big Thanksgiving

Hi, Mister Turkey! De folks is come

No matter of you weigh a ton dar's appetites fer all.
Ever hear dat story 'bout Pride what had de fall?
Yander sets de big Thanksgiving
table.

The Man Behind the Bird

By MINNA IRVING

[Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.]

WE honor the heroes of history's page
Who gild it with greatness and glory—
Columbus, De Soto and all of the rest,
Immortal in song and in story.
They sailed to discover this land of the west
Through weather unpleasant and murky,
But there is another we should not forget—
The man who discovered the turkey

O h, gather the drumsticks, clean polished and picked,
From each bountiful Thanksgiving table
And rear him a monument loftier far
Than the highest in fact or in fable!
Though nameless, he shines through the mist of the years
Like the sun through a fog billow murky,
So let us give thanks while enjoying the bird
For the man who discovered the turkey

To Thank is to Remember.
The Anglo-Saxon verb "thencan" means to remember, and from it as a root we get our English words "think" and "thank." These words so closely related remind us that thankfulness is a result of thoughtfulness and that visions of the past will enable us to appreciate the victories of the present.

IDLE HOUR LIVES UP TO REPUTATION

The Idle Hour certainly lived up to the name of "The Home of Good Pictures" in its program of all last week. Wednesday evening was given the photo play of "Fine Feathers" and Vern was right when he made the statement, "I saw it at the Cort theater in Chicago and it is a good one." Everyone who saw it last Wednesday evening at the Idle Hour is all saying the same. Friday evening was another good one too. The famous actress, Mary Pickford, in the play "Caprice." When Vern tells us that Mary is on the way and will reach Paw Paw on such a date the crowds are always ready and waiting. The theater was filled to an overflow for three shows to see these plays and actors of world renowned fame. The Idle Hour has succeeded in giving the public some of the very best plays ever staged for the movies.

RESIDENCE NUMBERS NOW ALL ASSIGNED

The village council have completed their work of assigning residence numbers for the village. But few numbers, however, have been put up and there are yet some of the business places without numbers. A little more speed and enthusiasm is necessary if Paw Paw is to have the luxury of city delivery of mail. As already stated in these columns several times, there will be nothing further done in the matter until every number is in place.
